Friday 11 July 2025

What has happened this week?

Physical Development ... Lots of gross motor activities on the beach digging in the sand and jumping in the water!

Communication and Language/ Literacy ... We have enjoyed reading Sharing a Shell by Julia Donaldson

Mathematics... We have been consolidating our knowledge of numbers to 20 and recapping number bonds to 10

Phonics—We continue to revise all the Phase 3 GPC's and tricky words. We have been really concentrating on automaticity and reading words automatically without having to blend out loud or in our heads!

Expressive art and design — I hope you have seen the seaside collages the children have constructed. I posted some pictures on dojo earlier in the week.

The school trip was a great success and the children thoroughly enjoyed their first coach trip! The Margate Caves were quite breath taking and the art activity that followed was a great experience. It was an interesting walk through Margate, with all the sights and sounds of a seaside town, to our base on the beach. The children dug and made sandcastles, found all sorts of different seaweed and jumped in the waves on the shoreline. Lots of tired children on the coach home!
